PRESS NOTE

Department of Botany of KVA DAV College for Women, Karnal organized one day National Level Virtual Workshop today i.e. 11 February, 2021, on topic "Growing Relevance of Plant Diversity in Modern Terms". Prof. Daizy R. Batish, Chairperson, Botany Department, Chandigarh University, Dr. Anil Kumar Thakur, Associate Professor, Rajkiya Kanya Mahavidyalaya, Shimla and Dr. Ashima Gakhar, Head, Department of Botany and Environmental Studies, KVA DAV College for Women, Karnal were the Resource Persons of the event. Mrs. Renu Mehta, Principal of the college, inaugurated the workshop & introduced the Resource Persons to the audience.

Prof. Daizy R. Batish discussed the importance of biodiversity, its loss in recent years, health implications of loss of plant diversity and possible ways to conserve biodiversity especially in urban areas. Dr. Anil Thakur elaborated on the plants of medicinal value, their identification and herbal preparations. Plant diversity and their ethanobotanical importance were highlighted through his talk.

Dr. Ashima Gakhar emphasized on human interference in natural habitat and over exploitation of nature viz a viz COVID 19. She drew attention towards positive aspects of COVID times in the form of Eco-revival, thereby encouraging us to protect our environment. Importance of common immunomodulatory herbs were also discussed

Dr. Seema Sharma of Botany Department prompted students for queries and discussion post-webinar. Dr. Nadia Chowhan, Convener of the event extended vote of thanks to Principal Mam, Resource Persons & participants.
